Throughout the exhibition run of RACE: Are We So Different?, the Missouri History Museum, in conjunction with the St. Louis Beacon, has offered monthly thought-provoking programs and content addressing issues related to race in the region and nation-wide. Join us as this programming culminates with our first-ever Community Action Fair.

COMMUNITY ACTION FAIR

The Community Action Fair provides the opportunity to connect with social justice organizations from around the metro area, including FOCUS St. Louis, Jobs with Justice, and El Mundo Latino.

In addition join us for:

- A presentation by Provident STL (10 a.m.)
- A lecture and book signing with Herman Jimerson, author of Foreclosure (11 a.m.)
- A panel discussion led by Washington University students, which will focus on student activism and the alleged discrimination that took place at the Original Mother's bar during a recent senior class trip to Chicago (Noon).
- A discussion from Cultural Leadership (1 p.m.)
- A presentation by members of the ACLU (2 p.m.)
- A lecture and book signing with Ralph Eubanks, author of Ever Is a Long Time and The House at the End of the Road (3 p.m.)
- A workshop with Clarence Lang (3:30 p.m.)
