A Conversation
About Race,
Beauty and Self-Image

Join us for a candid discussion about popular images, race and beauty. The program begins with a short documentary, A Girl like Me (7:08), created by high schooler Kiri Davis through the Reel Works Teen Filmmaking program (www.reelworks.org). Davis re-conducts the “doll test” used in the historic Brown v. Board of Education case and sheds new light on how society affects black children today. Discussion facilitators include Nicci Roach, assistant director for Webster University–Old Post Office Campus, and local blogger about race and gender and Vital Voice staff member Pamela Merritt. Brown bag dinners are welcome. Light refreshments will also be available.
