

Policing Black Activism at the Missouri History Museum in Forest Park

Monday NOVEMBER 16

Lee Auditorium

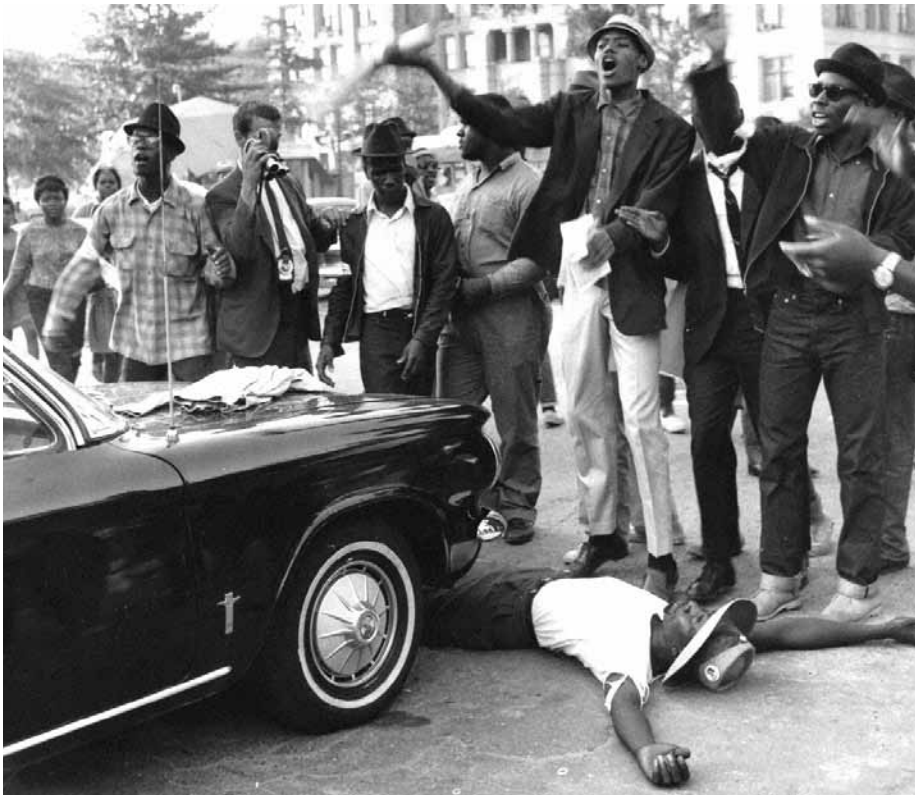

7 p.m.

FREE

In January 2010, the Missouri History Museum welcomes the special exhibition RACE: Are We So Different? Organized by the Science Museum of Minnesota, the exhibition explores the science of human variation, the history of the idea of race and the contemporary experience of race and racism in the United States. In preparation for the exhibition, the Missouri History Museum, in conjunction with the St. Louis Beacon and KETC/Channel 9, will present a monthly series of programs addressing issues related to race in the region and nation-wide. While the programs will vary in format, each one promises to be thought provoking.

Presented in conjunction with the Washington University Center for the Study of Ethics and Human Values and Olin Library

Policing BLACK ACTIVISM

Ivory Perry lies down in front of a car during a protest against police brutality.
Photograph by Lester Linck, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, 1965. Missouri History Museum.

Join us for a discussion of how black activism has been historically treated by the authorities. Watch selections from the acclaimed documentary Eyes on the Prize II: A Nation of Law? (1968–1971), followed by a panel discussion with Percy Green, civil rights activist; Jamala Rogers, newspaper columnist and community organizer; and Norman Seay, civil rights activist and founding member of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) in St. Louis. Dr. Sowande' Mustakeem, Washington University, moderates.

MISSOURI HISTORY MUSEUM

Lindell & DeBaliviere in Forest Park
(314) 746-4599 • www.mohistory.org

Missouri
History
Museum